Mark your calendars for Sunday evening, February 12, 2012, at 6:00 p.m. We will have a congregational viewing of the new hit Christian-themed movie Courageous. I was able to get a "sneak peak" of the movie last August and was deeply touched by it.

The film is produced by Sherwood Pictures, the media division of Sherwood Baptist Church in Albany, Georgia. Sherwood Pictures has previously produced the wonderful movies Fireproof and Facing the Giants.

When Courageous first opened in theaters nationwide at the end of September 2011, it finished 1st among new movie releases, 1st in average per theater revenue and 4th in total revenue for that weekend.

Perhaps most impressive, Courageous received an A+ CinemaScore, an exit poll of moviegoers used by studios.

Courageous presents the story of four law enforcement officers. The men, Adam Mitchell, Nathan Hayes, David Thomson, and Shane Fuller, are good at what they do, but they face a major challenge at home: Learning how to be good and active fathers. While they consistently give their best on the job, they find that they are missing the mark at home.

Already, God is using Courageous to touch the lives of men and fathers around the world by calling them back to principles of biblical leadership in the home, fidelity to their spouses and loving role models to their children. At a time when 40 percent of children grow up without a father in the home, America needs this movie.

My hope and prayer is that God would use this movie would spur the men and fathers of our church and community to greater love for God and love for their family.

Blessings,
Pastor Brian
